Jordann Conaboy is a former U.S. Department of Justice lawyer who has led healthcare and commercial litigation from all angles — as a federal prosecutor, a government enforcement lawyer, and counsel for clients bringing and defending against large-scale lawsuits and arbitration proceedings throughout the United States. At Stradley Ronon, Jordann handles complex litigation and internal investigations for a wide range of clients, including businesses operating in highly regulated fields such as the healthcare, managed care and pharmaceutical industries.

Jordann also serves as counsel for individuals and entities facing government investigations, prosecutions and enforcement actions. Jordann's matters often involve cutting-edge legal issues and high stakes, ranging from claims for substantial damages and penalties to actions involving potential criminal and regulatory sanctions.

Immediately before joining Stradley Ronon, Jordann served as an assistant U.S. attorney for the District of New Jersey, where he acted as a criminal prosecutor and an affirmative civil enforcement attorney focusing on healthcare fraud and corporate matters involving violations relating to opioids and pharmaceuticals. In his civil and criminal roles with the Department of Justice, Jordann handled numerous matters involving hundreds of millions or billions of dollars. He received accolades in both capacities, including the 2023 U.S. Attorney's Award for Superior Performance in Affirmative Civil Enforcement and the 2024 Federal Law Enforcement Prosecutor of the Year Award.

Prior to his government service, Jordann was a partner at a national law firm, and before that he worked at a Philadelphia litigation firm and as a law clerk in the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit. Throughout his career in private practice, Jordann has litigated disputes in courts and arbitration tribunals throughout the nation, with an emphasis on healthcare and commercial matters. His clients have included plaintiffs bringing large-scale fraud and RICO claims; individuals facing government investigations and prosecutions; and businesses defending themselves against claims involving managed care disputes, the Employee Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA), insurance coverage, partnership disputes, personal injury and wrongful death, contract disputes, and constitutional issues.
