Patent Protection for Prezacor

Stradley Ronon's intellectual property team manages the worldwide patent and trademark portfolios for Prezacor Inc., a manager and distributor of a patent-pending, chemical- and drug-free skin patch known as the Energeze® patch. The patch harnesses the body's own electromagnetic fields to relieve pain and is designed to adhere to the skin surface, providing days' worth of pain relief, without odor, oily residue or side effects. The Energeze® patch absorbs the body's own energy, and reflects the energy back into the body to quiet the pain-causing nerves and create a soothing sensation.

Recently, Stradley Ronon helped to secure patent protection for the Energeze® patch in the United States, Canada and Australia, and expects to secure patent protection in Europe later this year.
